 [Note.—The first edition of this work was published in 1787, four years prior to the arrival of George Barrington, the London pickpocket, in New Holland, namely, in 1791. (See his Life and Trial.) There is, therefore, no probability of his having contributed to the work, because he is neither known, nor does he acknowledge, to have written any book prior to his arrival in the Colony. The name of Barrington appearing on the title-page of this edition is, therefore, an unwarrantable deception on the part of the publisher. A remark on p. x. of the preface helps to prove that the writer was the Rt. Hon. Wm. Eden (Lord Auckland), and that Barrington had nothing to do with the work. The matter in both editions is precisely the same, with the exception of eight pages being added to the preface of the latter one.]
